The stream is abundant, and never failing one. The farm is considered a good one. It is mostly a red clay soil, and easily improved by clover and plaster.

The title is believed to be entirely unexceptionable, but the subscriber will convey such only as it is vested in him.

Died of a pulmonary complaint after an illness of four months, Basil S. Hurdle, in the 50th year of his age. The deceased, was a native of Alexandria and for the last five years of his life a resident of Millford, Prince William County, Virginia. It may be said without even incurring the charge of panegyric, that he was as a husband kind and affectionate, as a man open and honest; and it may be gratifying to Mr. Hurdles, distant friends to know that he met the flat of his Creator with perfect consciousness and resignation.
